ETMN 2017 is an attempt in continuation of earlier conferences; ETMN 2013 & ETMN 2015 to bring scientists and technology developers in the field of micro and nano domains on one platform to disseminate and discuss the challenges in these size domains, debate technology limitations and to showcase the possible roadmap ahead. Future beckons mankind with extraordinary challenges/demand of food, energy and water, and presumably Nanotechnology and Micro-Electro- Mechanical Systems (MEMS) will be dominating new frontiers of technology to solve these extraordinary problems. These emerging technologies, indispensable for developing adaptable man-machine interface, equipment and artificial organs for life support, are going pervading science and engineering fields. The sharing of knowledge and dissemination of state-of-the-arts are the need and key to efficient and optimal advancement in these areas. The conference will bring together the academicians, researchers, industrialists, peers and resources with the objective of mutual benefits.
